

A series of cation mutations where total number of valence electrons is the same and it keeps the charge neutral in the compound.

